

You are the one who knows the system

Which is exactly why you never get an hour to think about it.

This comes with knowing the system

Knowing the system is what makes you the one everyone asks. Being the one everyone asks is what takes away the hours you would need to look at it properly.

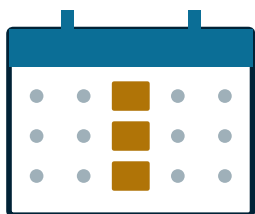

The fix is not another tool, another method, or getting up earlier.

Turn to the other page to learn more.

Find yourself a technical buddy

An hour a week. Or half an hour a fortnight.
With one person who knows your system and is not you.

In the diary, repeating. Not when something comes up, because by then you have no time.

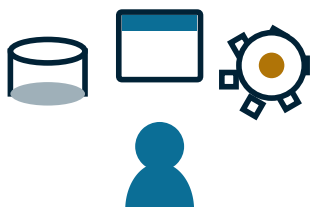

A standing hour

Time in the diary, so it actually happens.

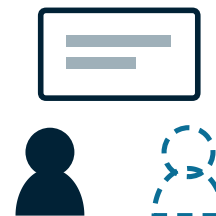

A second opinion

You cannot be your own second opinion.

A wider view

They work on other systems, and have time to explore all options and find the best one.

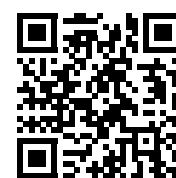

A backup

Someone who already knows your system when you are away, or busy.

Let's talk and discuss how we can be useful to you

I am HOnza, meet me at EngageU or call me any time: +420-608301880
or schedule an online meeting: 24usw.com/consult

- Building FileMaker solutions since 1991
- FileMaker plug-ins and web apps since 2001
- Hardware integrations since 2005
- Native mobile apps since 2010
- Customers in 79 countries

 Clariss Partner
PLATINUM